INFORMED

Incorporating end user cyber awareness training as part of their everyday productivity training can be an effective way to ensure that employees are well-informed against new threats that emerge regularly.